

Fallout Cloud Slated to Reach the U.S. Today

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cloud of fallout from the big Soviet nuclear explosion is due to drift over the country's Pacific Northwest today, but U.S. experts emphasized there is no need for undue alarm.

The invisible concentration of radioactive ash from Monday's detonation is expected to reach Washington and Oregon this morning. Weather Bureau specialists said the fallout appears to be heading into a rain belt that might carry some of the debris to earth in Oregon and Idaho.

They said it should take a couple of days for the fallout mass to cross the United States and that it probably would keep to a path over the Northern States.

Spokesmen for the Weather Bureau and the U.S. Health Service said he saw no need for undue alarm or for any immediate action to protect health.

"We don't think the levels of radioactivity will be significantly higher in the Northwest than they have been after other major Soviet bomb tests," said Dr. Lester M. Weather Bureau fallout specialist.

He added: "Most of the debris went into the stratosphere and will not come to earth for months. Only a little peered off into the troposphere (the air layer below the stratosphere), and it is unlikely that the radiation measurements will be frightening."

Deputy Surgeon General John D. Porterfield, summarizing for newsmen the results of a two-day conference on fallout called by the Public Health Service, said there are no indications that health protective measures will be required even if the Russians still explode a 50-megaton blast.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said this was the way the Soviet Union plans to conclude the series at the end of this month.

Some scientists thought Monday's explosion was the 50-megaton test, but there have been more Soviet tests since, including on Friday.

A Few Facts Concerning Fallout

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the radiation-bearing fallout from Soviet nuclear tests powerful enough to cause cancer?

If it is, it will be evident in "Mr. Khrushchev's grandchildren and all children throughout the world" in the next 10 years, the new president of the American Cancer Society said today.

"This predication is based on the assumption that the Soviet Union's present madness does not lead meanwhile to the sudden and complete annihilation of the human race," added Dr. Thomas Carline who took office today.

"We do know that in the last 10 to 20 years there has been a sharp rise in the incidence of cancer in children and in deformed births," Dr. Carline said in a statement released to newsmen at the close of the society's annual meeting.

"The unprecedented fallout occasioned by the Soviet Union's irresponsible testing of weapons could very well present a degree of exposure beyond critical limits of safety," he stated.

Carline is chief of radiology at the Virginia Mason Hospital in Seattle and past president of the Society of Nuclear Medicine and of the Washington State Radiological Society. He succeeds Dr. John W. Cline of San Francisco as head of the cancer society.

Chief dangers of fallout to those persons alive now are cancer of the bone and cancer of the blood-forming and lymph tissue, more commonly called leukemia, he explained. For children as yet unborn, there is the danger of mutation.

"Mutations usually show themselves in spontaneous abortions, stillborn children, mental and physical cripples of many descriptions, and perhaps once in a million cases, a super-human," Carline said.

Hempstead Farm Family of Year

J. G. Prescott Family

The J. G. Prescott family of Hempstead County Farm Family of the Year, according to B. N. Holt, chairman of the county Farm Family of the Year Committee. Mr. and Mrs. Prescott and their two sons live one and one-half miles north of McCaskill.

Mr. Prescott started farming 22 years ago with 47 acres of land, but has bought land during the years until he now operates a farm with over 900 acres. His two sons, Leon and John, help him with the farming operation which includes beef cattle, broilers and timber.

The beef operation consists of 200 cows and a Santa Gertrudis herd. Improved practices include dehorning, vaccinating for Bangs and Blackleg and parasite control. Even though external parasites are not a problem with the Santa Gertrudis cattle, they are sprayed to keep flies and ticks under control.

The Prescotts produce 300,000 broilers per year in four modern houses. The broiler operation is completely automatic, with mechanical feeders, automatic waterers and thermostatically controlled electric brooders. He uses the chicken litter on his pastures and has greatly increased productivity through this practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott are both very active in community affairs. Mrs. Prescott is chairman of the McCaskill RCI, which has won statewide recognition for its past achievements. She is a member of the H.D. Club and the McCaskill Garden Club, being rewarded in this by having the "Yard of the Month" last year. Mr. Prescott is a member of the Board of Directors of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau, the Cattlemen's Assn., the W.O.W., Chairman of the Ozark Creek Conservation District, and Steward in the Methodist Church of McCaskill. He has also served as ASC Supervisor and County Surveyor.

Mrs. Prescott provides for a healthful family living by filling a home freezer and a rented food locker with a variety of vegetables and meats. She is an expert seamstress and makes most of her clothes. She prides herself on keeping her home attractive and inviting and has recently purchased a new bedroom, living room and dining room suite.

Planes Carrying 50 Megaton Bombs

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Rep. J.T. Rutherford, D-Tex., said Thursday B52 bombers are carrying atomic bomb loads of 50 megatons that "they can drop any time at any place."

In Washington, the Pentagon would not reveal what nuclear power the B52 carriers and said it never discloses the yield of U.S. nuclear weapons.

Rutherford was interviewed on a local radio station.

Russia Rejects All Appeals

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, in a letter made public today, rejected appeals of Western liberals and scientists to end nuclear testing.

He said the security of the Soviet Union against danger of the United States and West Germany demanded that the Soviet Union bring its weapons arsenal up to date.

Khrushchev outlined his position in letters to British and American labor leaders and scientists. The letter was dated Oct. 21, the day after the biggest Soviet nuclear blast yet recorded.

Inventory of Fallout Being Taken

By W. JOYNES MACFARLAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service will have an inventory by late today of what each state can and can't do in coping with any fallout problems created by Soviet nuclear testing.

This is to be one result of a two-day meeting of about 100 federal, state and local health officials representing every state considering what steps might be taken on all levels of government if fallout hazards become acute. Judson Hardy, public affairs officer of the radiological health division, said the inventory is expected to include latest information on the states' legislative, personnel and equipment capabilities. It should also bring to light what weaknesses exist, Hardy said.

All the sessions were closed to the public and newsmen.

The service, in a statement Thursday on fallout surveillance and protection, said present fallout levels from the Soviet nuclear tests do not warrant undue public concern or drastic action. However, the statement added that the levels "do warrant continuous, intensive surveillance by federal, state and local governments and consideration of protective measures which might be taken if they should be found necessary."

"The situation within each state is being considered at working sessions continuing today. Ideas are advanced by participants, discussed, then tossed out or presented as a consensus of the group at a closing general session. The schedule calls for adjournment in late afternoon with a news conference to summarize the meeting.

Officials who looked in on the first working sessions Thursday said it was too early to determine any conclusions. They added that the state officials contributed heavily to discussions of states' possibilities in planning for better surveillance systems, interpretation of data, control and protective measures, and how to meet public information problems.

Students Try to Find Murderer

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Teams of 10 to 12 Cathedral High School boys worked in shifts Thursday, pouring over lists of 250,000 vehicle licenses in an effort to find a truck that may have been driven by a murderer.

The students volunteered to help the Madison County sheriff investigate Saturday's fatal slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Peter.

Authorities reported a red truck was seen near the Peter home about the time of the slayings. The students heard about the big registration checking job and offered their services. They expected to complete the job today.

Picker Is Deadly

CHATFIELD, Ark. (AP) — Lester Beasley, 31, of Hughes, Ark., was killed Thursday when a mechanical cotton picker overturned on him as Beasley turned it at the end of a row at the edge of an embankment. The accident occurred on a plantation near here, dreads of millions of new victims.

Department Sales Off a Little

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Weekly department store sales in the 11th Federal Reserve District were off and estimated one per cent the week ending Oct. 21 compared with the corresponding week of 1960, the 8th Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today. Sales in St. Louis were down an estimated four per cent, while those in Memphis, Tenn., fell an estimated one per cent.

Going against the downward trend were Little Rock, Ark., with an increase of 10 per cent; and Louisville, Ky., up three per cent. Sales in seven smaller district cities slumped four per cent. "Sales in the district as a whole for the month ending Oct. 21 were up one per cent, but off one per cent for the year to date.

Don't Assume God Always on Our Side

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prominent Protestant said today that while "we are opposed to communism as a faith and as an ideology and as a political system," it is a "covert idolatry" to assume that God is always on the West's side in the cold war.

The Rev. John C. Bennett, dean of the faculty of the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, made his comments in a speech for the 34th annual conference of the Catholic Association for International Peace.

Speaking of possible success against communism, the seminary dean said: "The fact that the United States is a status quo nation, fearful of radical change and influenced by a large body of opinion that is still committed to an uncritical capitalistic ideology is one of the greatest obstacles to the success of the Free World in upholding its own against communism."

"The utterly self-defeating character of the intransigent forms of conservative anticommunism in this country is amazing to contemplate."

In stating that it should not be assumed that God is always on the West's side, Dr. Bennett said: "It is our temptation to assume that, because our opponents are atheists, God must be on our side, and to overlook the extent to which communism itself is a judgment upon the sins and failures of the middle class world, upon the Christian world."

"The very atheism of communism is a judgment upon the churches which far so long were unconcerned about the victims of the industrial revolution and early capitalism and which have usually been ornaments of the status quo, no matter how unjust it has been."

Dr. Bennett added: "The temptation to turn the cold war into a holy crusade is ever with us and in so far as we yield to it, we make impossible the tolerable and humane which must yet come into international relations if there is to be a future for mankind."

Dr. Bennett differed with those who would rule out coexistence with communism. "Their view of the cold war," he said, "will almost certainly lead to hot war and to the nuclear catastrophe which will add to the victims of tyranny scores and perhaps hundreds of millions of new victims."

U.S. Nuclear Capacity More Than Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration announced Friday night that the military buildup will give the nation "a nuclear capability several times" that of the Soviet Union's, and thus the Pentagon will not spend extra millions ticketed by Congress for big bombers.

The decision not to use the $700 million Congress voted for big bombers and for pushing work on aircraft of the future was made public by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He said he had President Kennedy's approval.

In announcing that the funds would be impounded, the Defense Department said: "The progress of the administration's accelerated defense buildup makes unnecessary the use of additional defense funds appropriated by the Congress above the amount requested by the administration."

The Pentagon originally opposed buying more of the long-range B52 bombers and a speedup in development of the B70, designed to fly at 2,000 miles an hour.

But when the Berlin crisis developed, Congress not only approved all the additional funds Kennedy had requested but added more for another 45-plane wing of the B52s, plus money to speed development of other projects.

Since then the bomber program has been under study in the defense Department.

There had been rumors and hints that the Pentagon might reverse itself. But Friday's decision was foreshadowed even when Congress was considering the bill. McNamara let it be known then he was disinclined to spend the money.

The announcement not to spend the money ran into opposition from Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate military preparedness subcommittee, who led the floor fight for the funds. Stennis said Friday night in Jackson, Miss., that he is still convinced that "it will be an error not to proceed with the manned-bomber program."

Black River Resists All Siphon Plans

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Conservationists, engineers, and construction firms made five futile attempts to install a siphon system under Black River for the purpose of flooding part of the woodlands in the public shooting grounds.

This year, a pair of Game & Fish Commission men and four volunteers from Paragould got the job done.

The work has been directed by David Donaldson of Paragould, wildlife biologist for the Game & Fish Commission, and Sherill Hester of Corning, the Commission's manager for the shooting grounds area.

Paragould sportsmen who helped are Curly Hackett, Richard Marshall, Bob Wheelis, and Mel Burgess. Two 135-foot pipes have been installed under the river. When the pipes reached the halfway point, the river channel was diverted over the pipes to permit completion of the span where the river had been flowing.

Water impounded by levees on the higher ground known as "The Island" will be released into the pipes by controllable flood gates. It will pour out into sloughs and ditches on the other side of the river, flowing west and south to flood hunting area.

The siphon system will replace the Game & Fish Commission's pump which has been used to flood timberlands in the Northeast Arkansas paradise for duck hunters.

The work crew has also constructed a canal to feed the pipes, erected a bridge over the canal, lined outlet ditches with concrete, and repaired levees on the island.

The dam on Little River to flood the island will probably be constructed within a few days. Sportsmen should be able to see the long-awaited siphon system in operation in about a week.

The shooting area is northwest of Paragould where Clay, Greene and Randolph counties meet. It includes parts of all three counties.

She Came to the U. S. Some 75 Years Ago — So Happy Birthday to a Great Lady

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Exactly 75 years ago she came to this country from France, and she has won the hearts of millions both at home and abroad. The glow of warmth she extends to all who approach her symbolizes the country of which she is so much a part.

Other women may have had more or done more but few have been more simply by existing. From a standpoint of beauty, time has improved her appearance. When she was younger, this stately miss had a shiny, radiant face, but after weathering the storms of life with stoic grace, she seems more mellow in her looks and perhaps, more understanding of those who come to stand at her feet.

Knowing the psychological help as well as physical assistance which light can give to the traveler, this woman of whom we speak provides a wealth of light 305 feet tall on her island located in one of the busiest harbors of the world. People can look toward her home and see a torch lit by 1,000 watt incandescent lamps, three 200 watt incandescent lamps, and six 400 watt mercury vapor lamps.

Since a vast array of splendor makes a particularly strong impression on such people as Russian leaders, even they are in awe of the likes of our lady. Since she symbolizes her very name, many other peoples of the world respect that for which she stands. With a cherished book marked with the date, "July 4, 1776," she constantly reminds her visitors of the Declaration of Independence.

Such an outstanding woman has been placed on a pedestal. But we are talking about one that is literal, thanks to funds raised by Joseph Pulitzer and his "New York World." Others responsible for our fund being this lady's home are Edouard de Laboulaye, who proposed building a monument to United States Independence, framework designer and builder Gustave Eiffel and sculptor Frederic Auguste Bartholdi.

As for the pedestal mentioned earlier, it was designed and built by Richard M. Hunt. And at its base are the familiar words which our Statue of Liberty speaks to the world, "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses."

Fulbright Gives Backing to Rice

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has added his voice to those urging the Agriculture Department to increase rice acreage allotments.

Fulbright cited foreign policy aspects of rice cultivation in a telegram to Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman. The telegram was sent Thursday and Fulbright released the text here today.

The senator told Freeman he wholeheartedly supports rice farmers' request for a 20-per cent acreage increase.

"Rice is the major food item in the underdeveloped countries of the world," Fulbright said. "This commodity can be an important tool in our foreign policy. If the Food-for-Peace program is to be effective, it is obvious that we must have additional rice in the coming years. I urge you to give the foreign policy aspects of this problem careful and sympathetic attention."

Fulbright is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Bomber Cabin Pressure Fails

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Cabin pressure in the tail section of a B52 bomber failed 40,000 feet over eastern Washington Thursday, killing the tailgunner, Air Force officials said.

The victim was M. Sgt. Robert M. Browning, 39, of Tiffin, Ohio. He was stationed at Glasgow (Mont.) Air Force Base.

There was no pressure loss in the main part of the bomber and five other crewmen were uninjured.

Back to White House

The First Lady brought them back with her by plane Thursday from the family summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass., where they have been staying since June 30.

Jr. Auxiliary Plans Series of Projects

Endeavoring to assist in the improvement of the reading ability of six students from Brookwood School, members of the Hope Junior Auxiliary will begin a practice reading project Wednesday, Nov. 1.

Thirty minutes will be devoted to each child one morning a week. If the desired results are realized, more students will be included in the program. Mrs. George Robinson is chairman of this project.

Mrs. Dorsey McKee, clothing chairman, reported at the regular meeting of the organization, Oct. 25, the progress of her committee. To date 52 children have received new garments at the cost of $396.49 in addition to 65 used garments from the Thrift Shop Clothing Bank. The articles included jeans, shirts, blouses, skirts, dresses, socks and undergarments.

With Mrs. George Wright presiding, the Hope Chapter voted to arrange another Art Exhibit to be held in the coming Spring. Other chapters of the National Junior Auxiliary have adopted this project as a result of the success of the previous exhibit held by the Hope chapter.

More detailed plans were outlined for the Christmas Bazaar to be opened in December. The auxiliary invites the public to drop by their workshop on Elm Street and place orders or articles now in production.

Taylor, SEATO Members Lunch

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor lunched with the ambassadors of SEATO alliance nations today and reportedly gave them a report on the plight of Communist-menaced South Viet Nam.

An informed source said President Kennedy's special military adviser spoke with optimism about the future of South Viet Nam and its chances for surviving as a pro-Western nation. But it is believed he is privately much less hopeful.

Taylor and his party of 12 start home Saturday.

Claims U. S. Has 72,000 Agents

MOSCOW (AP) — The chief of the Soviet security police says the United States has 72,000 agents around the world and "the Soviet Union and the Socialist countries are the main targets."

Alexander Sholepin, the security chief, told the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress Thursday the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency spends $3 billion a year and has 40,000 agents. He asserted the U.S. State Department has an additional 32,000.

Both Sides Toss Tear Gas; Reds Bring Up Tanks

BERLIN (AP) — A tear gas battle flared up between East and West German police during the night while U.S. and Soviet tanks stood fast on watchful alert elsewhere on the bustling Berlin border.

German witnesses reported that 40 more Soviet tanks had moved into East Berlin before dawn to reinforce 30 Soviet tanks which rolled in Thursday night.

The tear gas exchange which punctuated the hazardous night vigil started with East Berlin police hurling more than 20 gas grenades at a West Berlin loud-speaker truck which was broadcasting to East Berliners.

West Berlin police retaliated by tossing more than 30 grenades back over the bristling communist-erected border barrier. There were no reports of casualties.

Tankers on either side of the tense Friedrichstrasse crosspoint maintained their unflinching alert throughout the night, their big guns zeroed in squarely on armored units barely 200 yards away.

American tank crews joked and laughed among themselves despite the hubbub of activity and a light chilling rain. But they left no doubt of their determination in a prestige struggle to safeguard Western Allied occupation rights in Berlin.

Soviet tankmen, clad in black overalls covering their insignias, kept the hatches to their big machines open. The Russians appeared equally lighthearted as they moved about in dim light across the checkpoint separating East and West.

A high Soviet source told an American reporter that Soviet tanks could and would move into the Western sector if U.S. tanks moved into the Communist zone. He indicated a large number of Soviet tanks were on hand.

Four American Patton tanks rolled up to within inches of the white line marking the barrier across Friedrichstrasse, bathed in Communist searchlights giving the scene the unreal aspect of a movie set.

Jeeps, staff cars, newsmen, photographers, military police, tankmen and officers buzzed back and forth on errands. Police ropes kept hundreds of West Berliners a block back from the border.

An official of the Soviet Embassy in East Berlin wandered about among the U.S. tanks. He breezily produced his diplomatic passport when challenged by West Berlin police.

Shadow of Constellation Joins Fleet

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—The shadow that once cloaked the USS Constellation today turns to splendor. She joins the fleet.

Born in travail, the mighty aircraft carrier comes into her own in a festival of pomp, parade and flying banners.

With her official commissioning she becomes the monarch of the Navy, the biggest warship in the line.

Top naval officers, and civilian dignitaries, were to be on hand for the shipboard ceremonies.

And New York City, which mourned the death and fire that raked the ship while under construction, is going all-out to salute her triumph.

Flaunting Times Square has been renamed "Constellation Square," and a tooting ticker-tape parade up Broadway this morning marks the debut of the giant vessel.

The city is adopting her as its flagship.

It was last Dec. 19, at Brooklyn Navy Yard, that with the ship nearly complete, fire erupted in a flood of spilled fuel oil on the ship's hangar deck, rampaging through the vast interior. Steel melted. Decks buckled.

The fire raged for more than 12 hours. Fifty civilian workmen, trapped in the maze of compartments, perished from flame and smoke.

But the married ship is new again—restored, refurbished and bustling with bluejackets.

"She's the world's greatest," says her proud skipper, Capt. Thomas J. Walker, 47, a Massachusetts-born descendant of whaling ship captains.

The 75,000-ton carrier, five city blocks long and 25 stories high from keel to mast, stands at her Brooklyn Navy Yard berth, an awesome mass of gray steel.

Her soaring superstructure, and sprawling winged decks tower over nearby vessels like a gigantic bird over her brood.

Her flight deck—1,047 feet long and 252 feet wide—stretches more than four acres in size. Its four powerful catapults, which boost the planes aloft, could hurl a big automobile five miles through the air.

The hangar deck below has a capacity of about 100 planes, and four elevators combined can hoist a dozen planes at a time to the flight deck in 35 seconds.

Group Plans a Hearing in State

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Agriculture Subcommittee plans a Nov. 9 hearing at Jonesboro, Ark., to consider problems and views of the area's farmers.

Rep. Clark Thompson, D-Tex., is chairman of the group which also includes Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark.

Committee aides said the hearing will consider views of Arkansas rice growers on a possible increase next year in the national rice acreage. With the big rice surplus of a few years ago now wiped out there is considerable support for a move to have the Agriculture Department increase the national allotment.

The growers also are expected to recount their recurring troubles with blackbirds, which invade the rice fields by the millions and feed on the grain, thus cutting heavily into yields.

At the urging of Arkansas members of Congress, funds have been provided the Fish and Wildlife Service in recent years to check into means of ridding the area of the pests.

The agency still is experimenting with control methods.

Fallout Shelters Are Inadequate

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (A)—A Civil Defense official brands as misleading a report last week that 90 per cent of home fallout shelters inspected in Tennessee were inadequate.

Lt. Col. James L. O'Connell explained Thursday that the news release was based on inspection of only 30 of the state's estimated 5,000 shelters. And, he added, those 30 were inspected because the owners weren't satisfied with the quality of work done by contractors.

"Naturally, you'd expect to find something wrong under these circumstances," O'Connell said.

Why was the misleading news release distributed?

"Clerical error," said O'Connell.

Like Balloon Budget Keeps Going Up

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The budget is like a black balloon. It keeps going up but you can't see through it.

Since it's what the government spends, for everything from missiles to pencils, it affects all our lives.

But no ordinary citizen can understand it. It's too big, too detailed, too complicated.

Yet, a brawl over it is building up between the politicians of both parties. It will get worse in the weeks ahead.

Over this weekend the Kennedy administration will make a forecast.

That this year's spending will be near $89 billion, a peacetime record; that government income, or revenue, will be only about $82 billion; and that therefore the budget deficit will be around $7 billion.

Two good reasons make the budget opaque:

1. What goes into it—meaning what the President and his aides, and later Congress, think it is necessary to spend—is after all a matter of judgment.

2. That alone means disagreement. The budget figures—the list of expenses the President thinks necessary and submits to Congress every year for approval—fill a volume as big as a metropolitan telephone directory.

No uninitiated man could understand it all. In fact, just five days ago a congressional committee complained the whole budget procedure is 40 years out of date and should be modernized.

When President Eisenhower ran deficits the Democrats quickly gave him what-for. And he had some beaux, too.

One year it was $12.5 billion. For the fiscal year ending last June 30, President Kennedy announced in July, Eisenhower's deficit was $3.9 billion.

Now that Kennedy is running a deficit, the Republicans are returning the compliment. Eisenhower already has started banging away.

He not only recently criticized Kennedy's spending but added: "The state of confusion I now sense in Washington is like a tornado—on a spring day."

Democrats—but not Kennedy—promptly reminded him of that $12.5 billion deficit of his own. But after Kennedy goes into some detail in this weekend report there will be enough ammunition to keep the politicians shooting for months.

Meanwhile Kennedy has some ready explanations for his deficit. Getting the economy out of a tailspin, building up necessary defenses.

As if to take some of the edge off the Republican criticism he can expect after this weekend, Kennedy has done things like these:

He urged his Cabinet and agency heads to be frugal in spending and hold down the number of government workers "to the minimum consistent with getting the job done."

But his administration has promised a balanced budget next year. The Republicans will be highly skeptical, and probably will tell him so before he ever tells Congress next January what the next year's budget should be.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy announced today a two-point program to spur American exports and thus strengthen the balance-of-payments position of this country.

The program involves use of private credit facilities.

The first phase consists of a system of export credit insurance to exporters.

This will be operated through the newly organized Foreign Credit Insurance Association. This is a voluntary, unincorporated group of major U.S. insurance companies.

The association has made an agreement with the Export-Import Bank to issue coverage against commercial foreign credit risks in partnership with the bank, which will cover political risks.

The second part consists of a

Young Mother Sounds Off

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: No matter how often a nervous young mother timidly requests that an affectionate grandmother or uncle to quit joining six-months-old Junior, she is either ignored, labeled a grouch or called "overprotective."

Being the mother of a small baby myself I appreciate the frenzied affection relatives and friends show him. Gritting my teeth, I sit and grin, while inwardly raging, rather than hurt Auntie by saying that Junior, being both tired and bored, is rapidly reaching the yelling point.

Babies tire more easily than adults. They become nervous and upset from too much tickling and cuddling. But relatives and friends, however, well-meaning, don't sense this.

Now that our little son has arrived we are constantly bombarded by folks who "come to see the baby." Most of them never knew we existed before he was born, yet they kiss, tickle, cuddle, jounce and bounce him until he is cranky, irritable and ready to crown them with his rattle.

And how these same relatives and friends sound off with unsought advice and old wives' tales. Suddenly, they are all pediatricians—the only difference being that their advice dates back to the Ark. No one will admit that I pay a competent, licensed, experienced pediatrician for correct advice on the proper care and growth of my child. Unasked for, stupid advice from ignoramuses does more harm than good, especially to the expectant mother whose emotions are already a bit on edge. Do you agree, Helen?

with a family in a rut. We do nothing but the same old thing day in day out. Mother blames it on lack of money and that makes Daddy and me unhappy. He works hard. I would work if I could but, she is either ignored, labeled a grouch or called "overprotective."

I realize my parents think a great deal of me as do I of them. But should their love enchain me I want them to be happy and I dream of all the things I'll do for them when allowed to work and earn money: buy beautiful clothes for Mother; get Daddy the guns and bird dogs he longs for; take them scrumptious places to dine; go on a holiday (as a family we've not had a holiday in five years).

Short of all this, I'll settle for something to get out of a rut. Any suggestions? —Confused

Dear Confused: All of us are likely to fall into a rut unless we recognize the fact and strive to extricate ourselves. Life itself can become a dreary habit.

Money makes no difference. I know millionaires who're caught on treadmills. If in California they fly to New York at set seasons; if in New York they go to Florida. May finds them and their families in Paris; June on the Riviera. They know precisely where they'll be going at a given time. Their stuffy, opulent lives lack the element of surprise. And therein lies the secret of breaking the monotony: Surprise!

Do something different each Sunday, even if it's only going to another church or coming home a new way. Cook a surprise dinner every now and then for your parents. Try out a new dish, experiment with table decorations. Buy a new record which none of you have ever heard.

Learn more about countries which you three may have talked of visiting. Get folders at the local travel agency, books from the library on these countries. Discuss them at dinner. Familiarize yourself with all their interesting features. Who knows, someday, some how, you may visit them together. Meanwhile, have fun with these and other variations on a theme: Lilt your family out of that rut!

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. CHARLES JOHNSON — "CHIROPRACTOR"

YOU CAN'T WISH YOURSELF WELL

Many of us are half sick and half well nearly all the time. Grunting along and wishing for health.

Our newspaper headlines tell us about a famous suicide. Reason — ill health.

One reason you do not read about, but which is found in practically every case of "ill health" is "disheartened confusion." The average sufferer has been diagnosed, treated or operated, and steered from one specialist to another, only to find out that as one ailment is patched up, trouble starts somewhere else. It is both confusing and disheartening when you have spent your money and time on differing opinions and differing drugs in a diligent effort to regain your health, yet nothing seems to help.

Life becomes miserable! Things lose their importance! You lose faith in all doctors! It is difficult to be a good wife, mother, father, husband, son, daughter or grandparent when one is sick and miserable.

We can't get our message of hope through to all discouraged sick folks, but within a few there remains a small spark of courage that flames into action when they see or hear our message.

Does it give you courage to learn that a retired registered nurse, past sixty, after coming to the Johnson Chiropractic Clinic recovered from headaches, indigestion, constipation, shoulder bursitis, and traces of arthritis that she had been suffering for years.

Perhaps the dramatic and grateful recovery of excruciating pain from a slipped disc and sciatic leg pains experienced by a father in his late thirties, after coming to the Chiropractic Clinic, will encourage you.

Or, perhaps the rapid recovery of an infant brought to us suffering pitifully from an acute rash practically all over her tiny body, or maybe the little six and seven year old brother and sister that recovered almost overnight from severe tonsillitis and high temperature, or the equally complete recovery of a nine year old boy from frequent colds, fever, nervousness, asthma, headaches, and leg pains will excite you into action.

Hundreds of such case records in our files are proof positive evidence that sick people get well under chiropractic care — many times after other methods have failed.

Chiropractic may be your answer too! You can't wish yourself well. Why don't you take your friend's advice and investigate now. Delay makes any condition grow worse, besides, what can you lose except bad health?

Chapter XXIV

"Please listen to me," Beecher said quietly. They stood ten yards apart, and the rocky ground between glowed with soft light. "You won't see Goulamine until they've got full value from you. And that might take the rest of your life."

"You've been reading the Arabian Nights," she said, with a hard smile. "This is the twentieth century, or haven't you heard?"

"Come back to the plane," he said.

"I can take care of myself," she wheeled and ran into the silver wastes of desert, her boots slipping and twisting on the deceptively gilded rocks.

Suddenly two grotesque silhouettes rose against the horizon: an instant before the desert had been serenely still and silent but then, hunching upward with fantastic deliberation, camels and riders emerged from the sand, stood black and heavy in the silver moonlight.

He saw Laura's bright head one last time; it gleamed in a pale swift arc as a rider stooped and swung her up into the air.

It seemed to Beecher that Lynch had willed himself to die; with Laura gone he had given up the struggle to live.

"Try hard to understand me," Beecher said. "If we get out of this, I and I will be in trouble. There's nothing to prove we weren't involved in Don Willie's plans."

Lynch nodded weakly. "No good saying you had a gun against your head, unless you can prove it."

"And it's only Ise's word that she wasn't involved," Beecher said. "I'm going to write a statement explaining how we got into it. Will you sign it?"

Lynch's eyelids fluttered. He moved his head slowly from side to side. "Wish you hadn't asked that. I can't do it, you know."

"Why not?"

"She's still got a chance, Laura. She took all your money, I may as well tell you."

Lynch drew a slow, cautious breath, and his eyes fixed themselves on Beecher's with a pathetic intensity. "Very hard to go out like that, I can promise you," he said faintly. "Listen, Laura's a peculiar girl. She's a liar. Not burning now for those murdered only when it's necessary. It's a pilot. Their wives have put on some need." He drew another tentative breath, like a man tapping the last few shillings from his better prospects than you and bank account. "She'd go to tea with friends, lie about it. Say she'd been shopping. Go shopping to it. But she knew the truth, I didn't. Gave her an advantage. Couldn't really help it. The land-over — Lynch's voice failed, and Beecher leaned forward and gripped his shoulder.

"The land-over? What about it?"

"It's a half mile from here. Due south. The axle isn't broken. Feed line's clogged. Laura insisted we lie about it. Gave her advantage."

Business Around Arkansas

By LEON HATCH
Associated Press Staff Writer

Within the past month two Arkansas cities on opposite sides of the state - Booneville and Paragould - have been singled out for special honors in community development during the past decade. Contributing to the development - and to the recognition - is the progress each has made in business and industrial growth.

There are other facets, of course, but they are intermingled with the business growth. One factor contributes to another. For example, recreational and cultural opportunities tend to help attract industries, and the influx of new money and new residents may help in recreational and cultural development.

In any case, the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce honored Booneville and Paragould K the former on September 28 and the latter on Oct. 17 - for their awards in the 11 years of the annual Arkansas Community Accomplishment Contest.

Each won six cash prizes besides some honorable mentions in its population bracket - not the same for the two cities - during the years of the contest, now supplanted by a newer version, in which communities that compete against certain fixed standards instead of against each other. No other city has won so many cash awards.

I. J. Steed, co-ordinator for the state organization of the Community Development program, recalled some of the specific things which contributed to each city's distinction.

He said that Booneville, smaller of the two honored cities, started out early in its self-improvement program to improve its water supply system.

According to Steed, the city probably couldn't have landed its plant of the Ace Comb Co., a major factory to locate there since the start of the industrialization program, if the improved water system hadn't been available.

Steed also noted, among other things, an extensive street paving program, a new-type sewerage disposal plant which was one of the first of its kind in the nation, and the renovation and lighting of the community athletic field, with the nominal charges going first to pay for the improvement and then to institute other recreational facilities.

"And when they needed a doctor," he said, "they went about it just like getting an industry. They built a modern clinic and let the doctor pay for it in rent like retiring bonds for a new plant."

Steed also noted, among other pattern was true at Paragould, which had somewhat more in the way of industry and population to start with than did Booneville.

Major projects, he said, included a complete "face lifting" of the city's principal street and the development of attractive Reynolds Park.

This was accompanied on the industrial side - just to cite a few examples - by location of a plant of the Emerson Electric Co. and three expansions of the already-established Ed White Junior Shoe Co.

Last year, the Paragould Chamber of Commerce outlined a program of "Sixty Challenges for the 1960's," which Steed said had helped form the basis for a long-range plan for the state organizations.

The Sixty Challenges range, in the order in which they are listed, from "build a new courthouse and jail," to "modernize Chamber of Commerce offices."

Steed refused to single out individuals in discussing the accomplishments of Booneville, Paragould or other communities.

He said that in every successful program it has been a team effort, usually with the business and civic leaders in the forefront.

He will talk in general terms about some of the things prospects look for in surveying for possible sites for new plants - and these include even the condition of the cemetery in the town under scrutiny.

For example, he told of one unidentified Arkansas town dismissed as a possible site for a new plant with only a passing glance because the visitor said it looked like it hadn't had a few gallons of paint or a few dollars worth of nails in the preceding 20 years.

Since then, Steed happily reported, the town has perked up and remedied these defects. He

French Utilities Cut by Strike

PARIS (AP) — Electricity and gas supplies were cut in much of France today as workers in the nationalized utilities struck for the second time in nine days for higher wages.

Electricity switches were thrown about 8 a.m. and gas pressure was cut at the same time in the scheduled four-hour walkout.

Lighter Side of the News Over World

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was if you will permit a rather fetched comparison, somewhat like a scene borrowed from ancient Athens.

There was the poet, venerable and wise, holding court on the doorstep of the politicians. And sitting at his feet, figuratively at least, was a band of scribes, eager to record the master's words.

In ancient Athens, probably nobody would have lifted an eyebrow when some of the words turned out to be four-lettered. Those old Greek poets were expected to engage in a little ribaldry now and then.

But in modern Washington, scribes are not accustomed to hearing Anglo-Saxon colloquialisms fall from the lips of visiting poets.

This is why Carl Sandburg's press conference at the Library of Congress this week already is well on its way to becoming a collector's item. Sandburg really shook us up.

Speas' At Exhibit

The white-manned bard of the Midwest, biographer of Lincoln and folk-song troubadour came to the capital to speak at the opening of a Civil War exhibit at the tary.

In the course of his visit, he made himself briefly available to the ladies and gentlemen of the press. Being ladies and gentlemen, they naturally wanted to know what he thought of the controversy over "Tropic of Cancer," a book that some cities have banned as obscene.

Sandburg replied that his opinion of the book was unprintable. Then he proceeded to voice his opinion anyway. And sure enough, it was unprintable.

"On the first page you get the word '---,'" he said. Only Sandburg didn't use blanks.

Hearing such a word spoken out loud, in mixed company, in the sedately hushed atmosphere of the Library of Congress, was a bit unsettling even to the reporters present.

No One Swoons

As to how it affected some of the library ladies, who had tipped into the room to glimpse the great meistersinger, I can only guess. None swooned, but I'll bet Sandburg is one poet they'll never forget.

Sandburg, who was extremely critical of the book, also called attention to another lusty term frequently used in "Tropic of Cancer." It sounded even more incongruous in those surroundings.

In fact, a girl reporter who is not exactly the demure type had to ask a male colleague what it meant.

Within hours after the press conference was over, Sandburg's comments were being buzzed about all over town. Seldom in history has a poet been so widely quoted.

In addition, a local radio station recorded the interview. It didn't get on the air, naturally, but I understand there is a big demand for copies of the tape.

Air Stream Heads Into Rainy Area

WASHINGTON (A)—The jet air stream that may be bearing radioactive debris from the Soviet Union's superbomb explosion of last Monday appeared today to be headed into a rainy area of the U.S. Northwest.

A Weather Bureau spokesman said the amount of radioactivity wouldn't be much higher than that after other big Soviet nuclear tests.

The Weather Bureau estimated that the suspected fallout cloud would cross the coast over Washington and Oregon Saturday morning.

Depending upon wind shifts and the width of the cloud itself, the cloud might also reach Northern California and Nevada, and on the northern edge might pass over southernmost Canada.

Lester Machta and Robert List, Weather Bureau fallout experts, said the forecast is for rain in Oregon and Idaho.

This would mean that some of the debris in the fallout cloud might be brought to earth in the rainy area. There was a possibility that the rain zone would be west of Washington, so that that state might experience little or no fallout.

The jet stream believed to be carrying the nuclear cloud eastward was moving at 100 to 150 miles an hour.

Although the fallout cloud caught in the stream of high altitude winds, 30,000 feet above the earth, was not traveling with the full velocity of the jet stream, it was moving more rapidly than had been expected on the basis of earlier calculations. The earlier estimates had indicated that the fallout would proceed over mid-Canada and a part of southern Alaska.
